The simulation game for android from Top Game. You can build you own city. Make a town, a village, or a city. Let's have fun. Minimum requirements: 1.8 and up Ratings and Reviews 4.9 / 5 88 reviews Nov 21 Fizzy Bubbles Just Dance Dance Games with bubble levels are a definite favorite of mine. Dots, Flappy bird, Bubbles - you name it, I've tried it (well, almost). But none of them have the neat and funny characters that make Bubble Pop! stand out from the crowd. Well, until now! In Bubble Pop! Just Dance! they got this right. With a colorful cast of characters in a wide array of dance moves, a bouncy soundtrack and the addicting mechanics that Bubble Pop has always excelled at, Just Dance! is the ultimate bubble shooter of dance. Nov 20 Mysterious Balloon Babysitter The first-ever episodic mobile game to get an 'A' from Apple. For the first time, the expectations were high and were they ever ever met! Meet the Balloon Babysitter - Gary, whose parents have left him alone, all the time! No parents or guardians to take care of him, so that he can sleep all day and day-night. Help Gary by hiding toys in his bedroom, avoiding the hungry adults in the house, and enjoying the view through the telescope he found in his bedroom. Dec 9 LOLA'S LAIR I hate clowns. The type that hides behind a glass wall at the circus, the ones that chew on their clown noses after each performance, and the ones that are in this game. LOLA'S LAIR is a new adventure game from the makers of the popular Escape from Unrailed, set in the "land of the funny," a fantasy world with ugly characters who seem to be as ugly as the real world - mischievous instead of friendly - but the games are easy to pick up and play. Play your way through nine dungeons with six grotesque characters and nine rooms of non-stop action, puzzles, puzzles, problems, and more puzzles. There are eight dragons in Hidden Universe and you can lead them to the Dragon's Den. You can buy vases, hats and other small items. But you can also sell multiple items together to sell

The fly kind of drones could be used to jam enemy radars and transmit jamming signals such as sound waves and radio waves to interfere with missiles and guns, for example. The project for a commercially piloted flying drone has been backed by the Department of Defence. It is expected to cost €75 million and will be ready in five years, according to a report. Minister for Defence Simon Coveney has said Ireland is going to be one of the drone manufacturing hubs in the world. He said: "We are going to have one of the world's most advanced drone manufacturing sites in Shannon." Limerick-based drone company Aerocat says the drones will produce on the side of their enterprise technology base. Staff from Aerocat and other groups have been taught drone design and programming by team from Defence Science and Technology Ireland. Aerocat's director, Paddy Droney, said: "It is a unique product as we are the first company selling drones to civilian market. "As far as I know, there will be at least eight other people out there building drones commercially." Mr Droney said: "Our product is the cost to the consumer. We have been able to reduce the cost of design, programming and service by 10 to 15 per cent." The drones will be mainly used for aerial surveillance, particularly for monitoring farms. The company's drones can be programmed
