Optitex 12: Tips, Tricks, and Cues. Take a look at the following videos which will show you ways to improve your Optitex project outcomes. Q: Is it possible to mount the iTunes U podcasts in a Mac App Store app? I've just now discovered iTunes U. The interface is a bit confusing but I thought maybe some one would be able to help me. I downloaded the app developer guide but I don't think this has any information on if it's possible to do what I want. I want to add an option to the existing Podcasts section in the Mac App Store app. Is this possible? Thanks A: I am not an apple developer (and mostly do not even live in the U.S.) but I'm happy to say: yes it is possible. I just tested it. Create a new app in Xcode. Search the App store for Podcasts and then click Install. On my iPhone 4S with iOS 5.0, it is clearly in the list. MEXICO CITY — Mexican President Felipe Calderón has declared a national "turmoil alert" and imposed a curfew on several northern cities to try and restore order as a summer of drug violence crosses into a fifth month. Mr. Calderón has in the past suggested that gangs and criminal groups play a major role in the violence, which has resulted in more than 21,000 deaths since the start of the year. Analysts say the actual number is probably well above that because there are no reliable figures on how many drug-related killings there are in Mexico. "We consider that there is a high risk of having a new wave of violence this year in the northern part of our country," Calderón said after meeting Monday with Federal Police Chief Genaro Garcia Luna and governors of the states most troubled by gang violence. "Because of this, we have decided to do everything to avoid that." He said the unrest had already been spilling over from the northern to the central and southern parts of Mexico, with a few police officers killed in the southern states of Guerrero and Oaxaca. No specific groups have claimed responsibility for the killings. But the violent chaos north of the border is causing the drug gangs to lo
