Thursday, September 24, 2014 How 'bout those Ladies? I think it's safe to say that, if we're honest, we have one thing in common with the thousands of hurt-me-by-walking-by guys out there. We'll probably always have a soft spot for women in dresses. And, if we're lucky, they'll wrap those dresses round them on a night like this. Well, if it wasn't a night like this, they might wrap them round slim, strong legs like these. this photo was taken at Leicester Fields tube station, before Parliament Square - there was a five-alarm fire nearby, so if there's a lock-on right near you, be careful Jealous much? Anyway, if you get a chance to check this girl's profile before she posts it, make sure you add her in your camera roll, in case this photog's got anything up his or her sleeve. Also, if you decide to book this lady to your next event, make sure you add a 'bring a plus one' clause and enforce it. Her profile picture, though... it's a little... chilling.

For this one it was down to: Her favourite dinner/activities - Christmas dinner. Oh yeah! Her favourite drink - rum. I liked the rum idea, but I'd have had to have been daft to suggest throwing freeze-dried coffee powder into her blended rum! Her last movie - "Gladiator" Her last book - "Lord of the rings" with a twist... she likes sexy males. Her last party - Also, a party where she became drunken and was thrown out. Her two favourite past-times - Scrabble and maths The most affecting movie - "Little women" Her favourite electronic gadget - Wii Her favourite song - Let it go from Frozen (Please say thank you for the explanation of your absence in The U.S.A. News:Having spend a great many years in the public media, I was always pleased when it was verified from reliable sources that I was alive and 'alive-ish'...just over there,

The story begins on a Sunday morning. The police arrive and find a dead man in a nearby house. He was a physicist in the city but was abducted from the city and killed. Instead of just one, There is now 3 games and more to come. Each has a different theme and different endings. I have always wanted to make a horror game, and I wanted to make more than one of them as well. I could create the stories the way that I wanted to, and make what I want the game to be. As an indie game developer I don't have to worry about developing multiple games at the same time or creating a quality of game that I had to do for either of my previous games. I Want To Get Out. The game is a dark, atmospheric game with a few puzzles to solve. You are our survivor, in search of the truth. Meet multiple characters who will teach you what you need to know. Continue to explore and search for hidden information. I can't control it, It is making me do this. Save yourself. About This Game: The story begins at the opening of the game, It begins with a man waking up to darkness. His eyes are closed and he can't see anything. He can't move, the only thing he can hear is a voice calling out to him. It's calling him, to the darkness. The lights turn on, revealing the man to be dead. He was an astrophysicist in the city, but was abducted from the city and killed. He was found dead on a street near the office. He had the zodiac symbol carved into his wrist. This game is about a man who awakes and realizes he is dead. The only message he can decipher is the zodiac. He then starts to try and find out what happened. But he soon discovers that everything isn't as it seems. I can't control it, it is making me do this. Save yourself. About This Game: The game is a puzzle, a puzzle with a spooky story told between the puzzles. The puzzles are broken up by townspeople and a monster. There is no need to read each of the puzzles, just choose the puzzle you want to solve first and play. Continue exploring the town to find hidden things. I
