SuperOneClick 1.9.1.zip

doesn't work here, with neither 1.7 and latest 2.1.1 versions. viewpad says usb debugging connected, superoneclick says killing adb server.. ok starting adb server. ok. waiting for device and keeps this status forever, also after de-re-connecting usb. after downloading and extracting the zip file, i then went to the folder on my desktop and ran the superoneclick installer. i was then able to choose rage against the cage in the installation wizard. i thought my tablet would now root, however the installation process was taking forever so i closed it. i waited for about 30 minutes but the installer never started back up. i restarted my computer, but when i went back to the superoneclick folder, i was still unable to choose rage against the cage in the installation wizard. not sure if this is just a glitch or if it didn't work on my computer. i tried this on my computer and it went through the same process. i chose rage against the cage in the installation wizard. it installed and the installation was complete. when i went back to the superoneclick folder, i could still choose rage against the cage in the installation wizard, but when i clicked on it, it would immediately close. this is strange because before installing the update to 1.9.1, i was able to choose rage against the cage from the installation wizard. i went to windows and uninstalled superoneclick. when i reinstalled superoneclick, i was able to choose rage against the cage in the installation wizard, but the installation was completely different. it only takes about a minute or two and it is completed. i then went to the superoneclick folder again and went to the rage against the cage folder. i selected "rage against the cage" and the screen went black with a message saying it was downloading some files. it finally came up to a screen where i could choose between 4 options. i chose "install superoneclick" and it was installed and it just finished and went back to the home screen. i then had to restart my computer for the app to start working. 5ec8ef588b
