I am looking for a tool like "Object Lister" (a vc6 addin I downloaded, which is similar to the "Object Explorer" on the IDE, but allow you to see all the members and functions in a class), which allows you to copy the content of one class file (e.g., a VB6 class file) to another class file (e.g., a C++ class file). Does anyone know such a tool, or has any idea how such a tool could be created? Thanks in advance for any advice. A: I assume you mean you have a header file for a.cpp file and you want to transform it into a.h file. I don't know of anything to do that, but here is a starting point for creating one: Q: Sql Injection attacks on my website I had an email that some of the account details were exposed in the website. In the URL of that page I have?p=id if some one puts the following in the URL: $url = ""; $url = $_SERVER["REQUEST_URI"]; $_GET = explode("?", $_GET); foreach ($_GET as $k => $v) { if ($v!= "p" && $v!= "id") { unset
