Transcript: Hey guys! This is the tutorial that you've all been waiting for. I've been looking through the comments sections as well as the social networks, and people have been sending me a lot of questions about how to configure this thing. Now I've played with this a few times. I've gotten to where I'm comfortable with it, and so I figured I would take you through the full process. So the first thing you want to do is connect it to your computer. Usually you'll plug the USB cable into the back and then into your computer. And you'll be greeted by the settings. You'll want to click on "capture" and then just wait for it to process. And then it'll take you back to the settings. And you can adjust the settings, change your screen and that kind of stuff. You can use this to make your own versions of this thing. And you can just upload them to the server, to Youtube, etc. So make sure to click on capture and then on the settings tab when you're done. And then you can start creating your own! This video tutorial is for those of you who are interested in learning how to make a crypto currency website using Microsoft ASP.NET. This tutorial will cover the setup of SQL database using a connection string. It will also cover the setup of aspx and cshtml pages using master pages. Finally this tutorial will cover setting up the logic to create new coins, deposit coins, withdraw coins and change the server. Here we will learn how to create a Custom Application Pool in Windows Server 2012. We will create a new pool and then install the latest.Net framework. We will also install the SQL server 2012 Management tools which are required for server management. This video is for Windows

Lidl, based in Berlin, Germany, is one of the world's leading retailers of food, and was awarded "Fast Company's Best Workplaces for the People" in its Fast 50 Europe award this year. It also won "European Superbrands" for its campaign "Rewards in the moment" in 2014. Lidl offers quality food at competitive prices that are convenient to buy, and its customers are able to complete their shopping easily and quickly as they are able to pick up the goods they need from the display units, which are laid out in accessible locations across all the stores. Lidl has a strong focus on customer service and ensuring that each and every customer receives excellent service, which has been helped by the development of its customer care management system. With its unique strategic focus on customer service, Lidl has maintained its competitive edge, while strengthening its market position and consistently attracting new customers. In the UK, Lidl employs more than 15,000 people and has 618 stores. There are plans for further development in the future, with a target for 1,200 stores by 2020. Lidl was ranked tenth for the "Best places to work in the UK" in 2014. Lidl UK operates two distribution centres: one in Walthamstow, east London, and the other in Leeds, West Yorkshire. The number of parcels being handled is steadily rising. At the end of 2014, Lidl UK's parcel volumes stood at 58 million, which is up from 47 million in 2013. In July 2009, Lidl UK opened its first drive-through Lidl store at the Waterglade retail park in Newport. There are more than 300 Lidl stores in the UK and they are spread across a wide area covering 9,800 square metres. Lidl UK has developed an excellent reputation for the way it manages customer service, and in 2012 it was ranked third for customer service in the sector and seventh in the
